The Mayor's Office Art Exhibition

"Local artists represent the creative class of Indianapolis, and we are proud to display their work with the Mayor's Office Art Exhibition. Art adds to the quality of life of our community and beautifies the world around us. I am pleased to offer artists the opportunity to share their talents with the employees and visitors of the City-County Building on a daily basis."

Gregory A. Ballard
Mayor - City of Indianapolis

In continuing support of local artists, the Mayor's Office is exhibiting artwork by more than 25 different artists. Several paintings, sketches, and photographs that encompass various themes are displayed along the walls of the office. Every six months, local artists are given the opportunity to share their talents with the visitors and employees of the 25th floor of the City-County Building by submitting their artwork to a jury made up of office staff. A reception occurs to celebrate the artists' work and gives them an opportunity to meet the Mayor and all employees of the City-County Building. The Mayor values the work of local artists and is pleased to offer this exhibition to showcase their work.

"One of the most important facets for an artist is a good venue to display his or her work to a variety of people. To have the opportunity to exhibit in one of the city's most prestigious offices with its staff and visitors is most satisfying. Each time I attend the Mayor's Office Art Exhibition reception, I'm made to feel my art is appreciated as much as I appreciate the opportunity to exhibit. It is always a positive experience."

-Stephen King, local artist
